Meeting Notice

The Microbiome and Autoimmune Disease
A Noel R. Rose Colloquium on Autoimmunity
May 16-18th, 2014
National Conference Center - 18980 Upper Belmont Place - Leesburg, VA

This scientific meeting is part of a continuing effort to encourage collaboration in the areas of autoimmune disease and inflammation. The conference will assemble a diverse group of scientists from a variety of specialties to discuss emerging research in immunology, the microbiome and influence of the environment.

This colloquium is hosted by the American Autoimmune Related Diseases Association, in collaboration with the Society for Women’s Health and the Immune Deficiency Foundation. The registration fee is $105 and will end May 9th, 2014. For more information and to register: www.microbiome.eventbrite.com

Confirmed Speakers:

Measuring Environmental Influence on Immune Diseases
Dr. Gregory F. Sonnenberg - Penn Institute for Immunology
Dr. Marian J. Rewers - University of Colorado, Denver
Dr. Eugene Chang – University of Chicago
Dr. Charles Bernstein - University of Manitoba
Dr. John Bienenstock - McMaster University, Hamilton, Ontario

The Microbiome and Disease
Dr. Joseph A. Murray - Mayo Clinic
Dr. Gary D. Wu – University of Pennsylvania
Dr. Daniel Peterson - Johns Hopkins University
Dr. Jonathan Braun - UCLA Pathology
Dr. Javier Ochoa-Repáraz – University of California, Santa Barbara
Dr. Meredith Hullar - Fred Hutchinson Cancer Research Center
Dr. Jens Walter - University of Nebraska, Lincoln

Gender Differences in the Microbiome
Dr. Robert H. “Hal” Scofield - Oklahoma Medical Research Fndn
Dr. Alexander Chervonsky - The University of Chicago
Dr. Omry Koren – Galilee Bar-IlIan University, Israel
Dr. Lisa Kilpatrick – University of California, Los Angeles
Dr. Sumathi Sankaran-Walters – University of California, Davis

Impacts of the Microbiota on Autoimmune Disease
Dr. Veena Taneja – Mayo Clinic
Dr. Lloyd Kasper – Dartmouth University
Dr. Rachel Caspi - National Eye Institute
Dr. Iliyan Iliev- Cedars-Sinai Hospital